P&C News

Had the pleasure of attending my first P&C meeting here at Jiggi School. I was most impressed by the warm, committed pro-active group of parents whose sole interest is to better our school and provide the best for our children.

Many issues were raised, discussed, decisions made and jobs assigned. As a result the canteen has had a stocktake and thorough clean before opening for business on Wednesday – much to everyone’s delight! Fantastic to see the SRC and Grade 5 and 6 children helping to serve and help out in the canteen.

Many families have been rung individually in an attempt to invite mums, dads, grandparents, aunts and uncles to either bake or serve at the canteen. It’s for our kids!

Please note that as of next week, the canteen will be open on Mondays. There will be no ‘Dish of the Day’ this term.

The purchase and installation of play/climbing equipment is imminent. Well done, a mighty effort.
It would be wonderful to see lots of new faces at the AGM in two weeks’ time.

P&C Drumming cost – what price do you put on the opportunity for our Jiggi Gems to undertake six fabulous sessions of drumming with experts in their field coaching?

The P&C are carrying most of the financial weight for these sessions and with the school contributing. There is a considerable gap however and find that we must ask families to help out as well.

Therefore we are asking $10 per child for the six weeks of tuition and $6.00 for second and third children in the families.

Of course, if you are having difficulties with this contribution please let the office know or ring me directly.

Library
Loads of library books were returned this week and has greatly helped our stocktake. Keep looking behind couches and under beds as there are many more to come.

Drumming
It was a privilege to have had an afternoon of drumming with the remarkable Peter and Maureen Jaggle last Friday. They had nearly 40 children begin with simple “body beat” patterns and finishing with each child playing an assortment of drums and accomplishing more complex patterns and beats. Jiggi Gems were enthralled and cannot wait for their second session next Friday. Many thanks to Peter and Maureen for their expertise – a wonderful and value resource to have in our community!

Weather Alert
In the interest and safety of our children, please be mindful of a ‘severe weather alert/warning that has been issued by the Bureau of Meteorology for Friday 20th February.

‘Solar Ovens’
“First we got a pizza box and painted the inside black. Then we placed aluminium foil over the top. We put a plate on the black paint. We placed cling wrap over the bottom. Propping the lid with sticks kept it open to the sun. Our marshmallows melted but only one of the eggs cooked. It was fun to experiment and see what happened...... it was good to eat the marshmallows!”
